

The Maltese Psychological
Association

The main objective of the Maltese Psychological Association is to regulate the relations between its members and employers' associations.

Other objectives are:

- To establish and maintain standards in the profession.
- To mediate as an official representative body with state bodies and other local and foreign organisations.
- To formulate, update, and maintain ethical professional guidelines as required by the profession at large, which however are consonant with and responsive to the Maltese culture.
- To organise and encourage further education, enrichment, research and support.
- To serve as a locus of discussion, sharing of resources and coordination of work.
- To consider and deal with any professional concerns that may arise.
